Leveling System for Guided Reading and Early-Intervention Programs

Titles with Guided Reading Levels cited in this catalog have been officially leveled by using the Fountas & Pinnell Text Level Gradient™ Leveling System unless otherwise noted. Titles with estimated GRLs have been leveled by a trained reading consultant using the same text characteristics and guidelines. Early Intervention levels are provided for use in early intervention programs like Reading Recovery®*. Visit lernerbooks.com for the most up-to-date leveling information.

KINDS OF NONFICTION

WHAT IS IT?

The 5 Kinds of Nonfiction classification system differentiates nonfiction books by their writing and design styles. The system helps librarians and educators expand and balance their nonfiction collections and provide a broad array of titles that appeal to different types of readers. See the five types on the following page.

WHO CREATED IT?

Award-winning author Melissa Stewart, in collaboration with educators and librarians.

WHY?

Studies show that educators tend to gravitate toward narrative nonfiction, but many kids are drawn to other, more expository types of nonfiction. This system helps students identify and select books they like, predict the type of information they will find in a book, and use the books for specific purposes.

WHERE CAN I FIND NONFICTION BOOKS BY TYPE?

Lerner has classified most of our nonfiction books using the 5 Kinds of Nonfiction system. In this catalog, look for the  symbol with the first letter of a category in the center. Some books may contain elements from two different categories; these are blended nonfiction titles. You can also visit lernerbooks.com/5KNF to search by category.

Note that books that deliver factual information but strongly use fictional elements—such as invented dialog or scenes, talking animals, or fictional characters—are not included in this classification system. These books have the text type “informational fiction.”

HOW CAN I LEARN MORE?

Visit the Educators section of Melissa’s website at melissa-stewart.com or read Melissa’s professional development books to learn more about 5 Kinds of Nonfiction and nonfiction writing. These books are available to order from lernerbooks.com.

Thinking one of your own boundaries can be grace and flexibility. For example, getting out of your comfort zone to join the Spanish club, talking to a friend with a different view, or learning to swim a new stroke even though it scared you in the past are all boundaries worth breaking so that you can grow.

But if someone else disrespects your boundaries, that is not okay. In an unhealthy relationship, boundaries are routinely disrespected.

LIZA & ANGIE'S STORY (FICTIONAL)

The funniest thing happened to Liza in science class. After school, she texts her friend Angie about it for twenty minutes straight.

Finally, Angie answers: "Hey, I'm actually studying and turning off my phone. I will turn it back on at 8 and we can talk." Angie turns off her phone.

Liza completely ignores Angie's response and keeps texting her over and over again. When Angie finally turns on her phone, she sees twenty-eight texts from Liza, saying things like "Omg, if you don't answer, we don't have to be friends."

When Angie still she couldn't talk until 8 pm, she was setting a boundary. Good for her! She knew what she wanted, she spoke out, she was fair, and she was very Clear. Liza is perfectly within reason to be disappointed that Angie can't talk. However, she shouldn't disrespect Angie's boundaries. She should have waited until 8 pm to text. Instead, Liza took out her disappointment and anger on Angie, and she even tried to manipulate Angie into breaking her personal boundaries. Not okay.

AGENCY

Agency is a type of power. It's power that all of us have. We use our own agency whenever we make our own original choices.

You're using your agency when you start writing or drawing on your own, because it makes you feel good. You're using your own agency to leave a party because you're bored, even though all your friends are telling you to stay. Hopefully, you're using your own agency to take time to read this book and learn about #MeToo. (If your teacher made you, sorry about that.)

In a healthy relationship, you have agency. You choose to hang out with someone. You choose when to text him and when to reply to his messages. You choose to hug him and when to be physical with him. In this healthy relationship, you are using your agency, and he is using his. Maybe sometimes he wants you to be status to play any more. You're then you want to play, but you usually speak up when you're not enough. Overall, you both have control in the relationship. It's a beautiful thing.

In an unhealthy relationship, you don't have agency. The other person is making most of the choices when to hang opened her hand towards the hole, invitingly. But none of 4X seemed keen.

"She has to be joking," said Daisy-May.

Mrs. Ogg looked impatient. She grabbed the driver's arm. He looked a little startled, but it was hard to tell what was going on under that beard. He sat with his legs dangling in the hole and Mrs. Ogg pushed him.

His head and shoulders disappeared into the hole.

"IT'S A SLIDE!" shouted AJ and everyone rushed to be the first down. This was a disaster waiting to happen. There could be a mid-slide pile-up. I remembered when I was on vacation there was a lifeguard at the top telling people when to go.

"Mrs. Ogg, can I tell people when it's safe to go?" I asked.

She nodded, so I stood by the hole. I counted one-dinosaur, two-dinosaur, three-dinosaur in my head and gestured when it was each person's turn. Nathan was the last in line and turned to smile at me before he slid down. Then it was my turn. Was it a steep drop? Mrs. Ogg didn't give me much time to think about it. She helped me sit down, gave me a quick pat that was almost a shove, and I was off.

The slide was not quite as scary I had feared. I sped around the twists and turns, catching up

The image displays three sample teaching guides from Lerner eSource. The first guide, titled "COMPARING ANIMAL TRAITS DIORAMA PROJECT", includes instructions for creating a diorama and a list of questions to consider. The second guide, titled "WHAT'S GREAT ABOUT THE MINNESOTA FLAG?", provides information about the state flag and includes a section for students to design their own flag. The third guide, titled "Teaching First Step Nonfiction Pollination", includes information about pollination and lists standards and multiple intelligences utilized. A small dog is sitting in the bottom right corner of the image.

COMPARING ANIMAL TRAITS
DIORAMA PROJECT

Select and read a book from the Comparing Animal Traits series. Then create a diorama of the animal's habitat. Your diorama should include models of the following:

- The title animal
- Plant life common in the animal's habitat
- Land or water features, such as mountains or rivers, that are present in the animal's habitat
- Examples of the plants and animals that the title animal eats

When you have finished your diorama, write a paragraph that explains why your animal is able to survive well in its habitat. Then choose a habitat that would not be a good match for your animal. Write a second paragraph that explains three or more reasons why your animal may not survive in this habitat.

WHAT'S GREAT ABOUT THE MINNESOTA FLAG?

Minnesota's flag has a blue background with a gold border. A seal is in the center of the flag. The scene in the center of the seal shows a farmer plowing a field and an American Indian riding a horse. Above the scene is the state's motto L'Etoile du Nord, which means "the Star of the North" in French. A wreath of lady's slippers, which are Minnesota's state flower, surrounds the scene. There are three dates in the wreath. At the top is 1858, the year Minnesota became a state. To the left is 1819, the year settlers founded Fort Snelling. To the right is 1893, the year the state adopted the flag. Nineteen stars surround the wreath. There are four clusters of four stars and one cluster of three stars. The stars show Minnesota was the nineteenth state to join the United States.

1. What does L'Etoile du Nord mean? Circle your answer in the text.
2. What are the three dates shown on the state flag? Underline the sentence or the sentences in which you found your answer.
3. Why are there nineteen stars on the flag? Underline the sentence or the sentences in which you found your answer.

Design a flag for your school in the space at right. Then write a paragraph answering the following questions: What colors did you choose for your flag? Why? Do your colors represent anything? Do you have any pictures or symbols? What are they? Why did you choose them?
